The Scar Boys	Len Vlahos	Harry Jones does not think that 250 words is adequate space to convey himself to the Faceless Admissions Professional at the other end of his college application. So he decides to make his own rules. Instead, he writes a 250-page essay. That essay is the story found in Len Vlahos's THE SCAR BOYS.	900L	Fiction: Realistic
LOL...OMG	Matt Ivester	lol...OMG! provides a cautionary look at the many ways that today's students are experiencing the unanticipated negative consequences of their digital decisions - from lost job opportunities and denied college and graduate school admissions to full-blown national scandals. It also examines how technology is allowing students to bully one another in new and disturbing ways, and why students are often crueler online than in person. By using real-life case studies and offering actionable strategies and best practices, this book empowers students to clean up and maintain a positive online presence, and to become responsible digital citizens.	940L	Non-fiction
The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy	Douglas Adams	Seconds before the Earth is demolished to make way for a galactic freeway, Arthur Dent is plucked off the planet by his friend Ford Prefect, a researcher for the revised edition of The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy who, for the last fifteen years, has been posing as an out-of-work actor.	1000L	Fiction: SciFi
Phineas Gage: A Gruesome but True Story about Brain Science	John Fleischman	Phineas Gage was truly a man with a hole in his head. Phineas, a railroad construction foreman, was blasting rock near Cavendish, Vermont, in 1848 when a thirteen-pound iron rod was shot through his brain. Miraculously, he survived to live another eleven years and become a textbook case in brain science. At the time, Phineas Gage seemed to completely recover from his accident. He could walk, talk, work, and travel, but he was changed. Gage "was no longer Gage," said his Vermont doctor, meaning that the old Phineas was dependable and well liked, and the new Phineas was crude and unpredictable. His case astonished doctors in his day and still fascinates doctors today. What happened and what didn't happen inside the brain of Phineas Gage will tell you a lot about how your brain works and how you act human.	1030L	Non-fiction: Informational
Indentured: The Battle to End the Exploitation of College Athletes	Joe Nocera & Ben Strauss	For about 5 percent of top-division players, college ends with a golden ticket to the NFL or the NBA. But what about the overwhelming majority who never turn pro? They don't earn a dime from the estimated $13 billion generated annually by college sports—an ocean of cash that enriches schools, conferences, coaches, TV networks, and apparel companies . . . everyone except those who give their blood and sweat to entertain the fans. Indentured tells the dramatic story of a loose-knit group of rebels who decided to fight the hypocrisy of the NCAA, which preaches endlessly about the purity of its "student-athletes" while exploiting many of them.	1300L	Non-Fiction
The Millionaire Next Door	Thomas Stanley/ William Danko	When Authors Tom Stanley and William Danko went to investigate on how people get wealthy, they found something odd. Many of the people who live in upscale neighborhoods and drive luxurious cars do not have extreme wealth. Many people who have great wealth do not even live in upscale neighborhoods. The book gives insights on what you can do to become wealthy and how wealth is not what you spend but what you accumulate. The millionaires discussed in this book are financially independent. They can live for years without receiving one month's pay check. Are you wondering who becomes wealthy in our society?	Not Available	Non-fiction
